Are you interested in getting a PhD in the biomedical sciences and desire additional research training before applying?

This certificate program is designed for students belonging to a group of underrepresented sciences (socioeconomic or underrepresented racial or ethnic group or individuals with disabilities) who will receive a bachelor's degree and have a desire to pursue a PhD in the biomedical sciences but want additional research training and skills development. Scholars must have completed their BS degrees less than 3 years before entering the program.
